

National celebrations - NAIDOC Week

NAIDOC week has been celebrated across Australia for many years now. It was decided that the event should cover a week, from the first to the second Sunday in July. The purpose for the celebrations is to remember the history and culture of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. It is also an opportunity to recognise the achievements and successes of many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. Schools all across Australia put together many cultural activities and performances during this week. The culture of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander is showcased and shared with all other Australians.

Answer the following questions using the information above:

- When is NAIDOC week celebrated in Australia?

- What is the purpose for the celebrations?

- Think about how your school celebrates NAIDOC week. Write and/or draw below:

- There are many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who have become very successful in their chosen careers. Research one of these people and write about his or her achievements below:

This activity sheet was created to enhance and restore the language & dialect of the South-West Region through Bridiya Koolingar.

© 2026 Tianah Brown-Yates

